

WHAT WE DO

We champion the protection of the countryside in Northern Ireland and support all who care about it. We are a grass roots campaign. We've seen rapid and damaging change to the rural landscape in Northern Ireland in the last few years and are doing something about it. Most of us live in rural areas but people from the towns and cities are equally welcome and important to our cause.

Although we're just a group of individuals, we know we're not alone. There are so many of us who really care about our environment and landscape.

We have no formal links with any environmental organisation. But we do support a lot of what they're saying about unsustainable development in Northern Ireland.

OUR OBJECTIVES

- To help protect the unique landscape, flora and wildlife of Northern Ireland.
- To help ensure high quality housing and business premises in the countryside for people who need to reside and work there, through lobbying for the conversion of traditional farm buildings for modern needs.
- To add a voice to those of farmers and other country dwellers in support of environmentally sustainable economic and social development projects.
- To strive to pass on to future generations an unspoilt countryside in Northern Ireland.

BUILDING OUR NETWORK

We aim to build a campaign network of individuals and local groups across Northern Ireland and seek to help them to counter the pressure of the over development in our countryside.
